

The facts every member of staff should be able to say without looking. Fill it in for your home.

Inspectors speak to staff alone, permanent and agency, and they watch handover. No two inspections ask the same questions. What does not change is that a good answer to almost any of them uses the same few facts about the home, about each child, and about the member of staff themselves. If someone has to go and look one up, that is what gets written down. This card is for filling in once and pinning in the staff room.

Your home

The supervision cycle here (every ____ weeks) _____

For each child you work with

Not from the file. From memory, because that is how the question comes.

- ☐ What their plan asks staff to do this month.
- ☐ What their risk assessment says, and what changed last.
- ☐ Their missing plan: who is called, in what order, and when.
- ☐ What calms them, and what makes it worse.
- ☐ Who their social worker is.
- ☐ What they have said they want, and what has been done about it.

About yourself

- ☐ Which of my mandatory courses are in date, and when each runs out.
- ☐ Where I am with the level 3, and the date it is due.
- ☐ When my last supervision was, and when the next one is.
- ☐ Which holds I am trained in, or that I am not trained yet and what I do instead.
- ☐ What I record at the end of a shift, and where.

- ☐ How I report a concern about a child, in order, with the names.
- ☐ How I report a concern about a colleague, including outside the home.

If you are asked something you do not know

Say so, say where you would find it, and go and find it. That is a better answer than a guess. Inspectors are checking that the home's systems work and that staff know how to use them, not that everyone has memorised the policies.

Managers: the fastest way to fill this card is to ask each line out loud at a team meeting. The lines that get a pause are the work.
